Read the following passage carefully.

Looking at the modern children, one striking difference between the childhood that the previous generation had and the one that this generation is having, is the lack of Indian or native games. Nowadays, almost all children play games like cricket, tennis and football. Nobody is playing games like kabaddi, gilli danda, pittu phod, posham pa, etc. These games have a rich culture and heritage value and were tools of passing on some ancestral knowledge or the other. They also sharpened our observational and math skills unlike the hit-and-run games of the west that are unidimensional and strengthen only hand-eye co-ordination.

Traditional games were not just games, they were designed in such a way that one could develop lot of skills like logical thinking, building strategy, concentration, basic mathematics and aiming. Nowadays, we develop these skills by paying money to centres that conduct personal development courses.

Traditional games act as learning aids. They teach us many things while playing like, to learn to win and lose, develop sensory skills, count, add, improve motor skills, identify colour, improve hand-eye co-ordination and finally to have fun. Naturally, one plays or watches a game to have fun.

The values that we achieve by playing these games are more when compared to the games that we play nowadays. Some of the values that we gain are that they are environment friendly, we get a chance to learn about our culture and history, and an important thing is, that these games are suitable for all ages, so they increase the interaction between generations. Many modern games played around the world have their origin in these traditional games; this is a pride to our country's culture.

On the basis of your reading of the passage, answer the following questions briefly.

- What is the striking difference between the childhood of the previous generation and this generation?
- What are the games that children play today?
- How are traditional games better than western ones?
- What kind of skills do the traditional games help to develop?
- How are we developing these skills instead?
- What kind of values do traditional games achieve?
- How do these games increase interaction between generations?
- Find a word from the passage which means the same as 'communication'.
